Report on Industrial Hemp Licences

July 2002

PURPOSE:

To report on licences issued for the commercial production of industrial hemp under the Industrial Hemp Regulations (IHR) and for research purposes under the Narcotic Control Regulations (NCR).

SCOPE:

This report contains information on licences and authorizations issued under the Controlled Drugs and Substances Act, with particular reference to the IHR and the NCR, as of July 9, 2002. While the figures contained herein are accurate at the time of writing, licences and authorizations continue to be issued, as required, until the end of the calendar year.

As indicated in Section 5 of the IHR, licences are issued for specific activities including: importation, exportation, production, sale and provision of industrial hemp. A person who holds a licence to engage in an activity with respect to industrial hemp is permitted to possess, transport, send or deliver industrial hemp to the extent necessary to conduct the licensed activity. Authorizations are issued to persons who do not hold a licence and are restricted to possessing, transporting, sending, or delivering industrial hemp for specific purposes.

Data for the two licencing schemes, under the IHR and NCR respectively, are presented in Tables 1, 2, 3 and 4. Combined data, where comparable, are presented in Table 5.

INFLUENCES ON LICENCING PROGRAM - 2002:

Acreage and numbers of licences issued for cultivation remain low in comparison to 1999; however, they are comparable to 2001. An example of a contributing factor which may have influenced production is believed to be:

1. The continuing situation in the USA concerning the production of industrial hemp and the use of food products that contain industrial hemp. A "0" tolerance for delta-9-tetrahydrocannabinol (THC) is maintained. On October 9, 2001, the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) issued an interpretive rule stating that, if the product causes THC to enter the human body, it is an illegal substance that may not be manufactured, sold, or consumed in the United States. Such products include "hemp" foods and beverages that contain THC. If, however, the product does not cause THC to enter the human body, it may lawfully be sold in the United States. Included in the category of lawful hemp products are textiles and personal care products. There is concern that the new interpretations might influence Canada's domestic industrial hemp industry because the major market is in the United States.

On March 7, 2002, the 9th Circuit Court of Appeals granted the Hemp Industries Association's Motion to Stay DEA's rule, effectively blocking DEA's rule until the Court makes a final decision some number of months from now.

Tables 1, 2 and 3 provide information on licences and authorizations for commercial activities as of July 9, 2002.

* Applicant refers to a company, co-operative, partnership or individual submitting a request for a licence to engage in one or more activities at one or more licensed sites.

 Application refers to a request for a licence to engage in one or more activities at one site (# of applications = # of sites).

 Licence Issued refers to a licence to engage in one or more activities at one licensed site (# of licences = # of sites).

The number of applicants is less than the number of licences issued. A single applicant may request licences for multiple activities at multiple locations. Licences are issued to qualified applicants to perform specified activities at one site. A single licence number is issued for each location, even where multiple activities are approved for that site.

RESEARCH Licences:

The Narcotic Control Regulations and related policies govern the requirements for research licences. Area of production for Applications and Licences that relate to greenhouse or laboratory production are not included in these figures.

COMBINED DATA:

The number of hectares listed, under both the Commercial and Research licencing schemes, are those approved at the time of licencing and may be greater than the number of hectares seeded. Delays due to commercial influences such as unavailability of seeds, weather conditions, etc. may result in a decrease in the area seeded.

- (1) Applicant refers to a company, co-operative, partnership or individual requesting a licence for one or more activities at one or more licensed sites.
- (2) Application refers to a request for a licence to engage in one or more activities at one licensed site (# of applications = # of sites)
- (3) Applications in active status means there is on-going correspondence between the applicant and the Health Canada reviewers. This may include requests for additional information, or for written confirmation of withdrawal.
- (4) Applicant initiated a licence request, but withdrew the request.
- (5) The Industrial Hemp Program does not keep statistics on individual activities for which licencing is declined. Applicants may receive a licence, but certain requested activities for which the applicant is not qualified may not be included.
